The Highest Call

As a boy, all Khun wanted to do was serve the King of Thailand. Unlike most boys, Khun's dreams of valor transformed into reality when he became a Thai soldier after graduating college. He served his allotted time and then continued to climb the ranks until he was one of the few Thai soldiers entrusted to protect the King. Fulfillment at last!

However, Khun's personal life was not so pleasant. He turned to alcohol and became a man he is not proud to talk about. As a result, his wife left him and his family fell apart. Despite being an honorable soldier, Khun was a broken man. During this time he began to listen to the Hope in This Life radio program produced by the Fang Church of the Nazarene. For two years he listened regularly but never contacted the church even though it was near where he was stationed. For two years God was watering the seeds of hope He had planted in Khun's heart.

One day Kuhn contacted the church's pastor, Rev. Natachai, and prayed to receive Christ. Kuhn says he is eager to study the Bible and serve God in the Fang Church. He testifies, "My whole life is changed! I give all of myself to God. I'm eager to serve Him."

Kuhn, now retired from the King of Thailand's service, is answering the highest call -- He is serving the King of Kings!

Beyond Borders & Barriers

In Abidjan, the capital city of Côte d'Ivoire, Zampou listens to Nazarene Time, a World Mission Broadcast (WMB) radio program. Zampou is a religious chief in his village and listening to a program that talks about Jesus could cost him his life.

Despite Zampou's regular presence at the local religious building, he continues to listen to the program on a small, red, battery-powered radio given to him by Prao Kouakou, district superintendent and the WMB coordinator for the Africa West Field.

Pray for Zampou, that he will accept Christ as the one true, living God, and in turn will lead many in his village to do the same.
